Stray Rescue of St. Louis Teams Up with St. Louis Animal Care & Control to Reduce Adoption Fees for the Month of March

Adopt a Stray Rescue or St. Louis Animal Care & Control Dog for $25 now through March 31

St. Louis, Missouri (March 1, 2016) – Now through March 31st, Stray Rescue of St. Louis and Animal Care and Control are lowering adoption fees to just $25 during their “Winter Thaw” Adoption Event. The no-kill organization’s shelter is currently full of adoptable companion animals and also handles adoption services for Animal Care and Control.

“The worst of winter is passed us. We rescued hundreds of dogs from the cold streets, and now we need to find forever families for them. Our two shelters are at capacity,” said Randy Grim, Founder of Stray Rescue. “Let one of our dogs melt your heart during our ‘Winter Thaw’ Adoption Event. Stray Rescue is all about love and compassion. We’re looking for those loving and compassionate people who are ready to add a member to their family.” Every adoption fee, normally $100, includes spay/neuter surgery, vaccinations, vet exam and microchip. Puppies under 6 months old are not eligible for the $25 adoption fee.

Potential adopters can meet loving dogs like Racer X, Annabell, and Edison at Stray Rescue’s shelter located at 2320 Pine St. in downtown St. Louis. These three dogs will make wonderful family pets!
